

Open Science Student Support Group | OSSSG

Who We Are?

OSSSG (Oh! - Triple S – Gee) was founded in 2020 in the Department of Psychology, University of Calgary, by a group of graduate students eager to learn about different open science practices and support each other in implementing them in our own research.

Our Vision Statement

We aim to develop a thriving student-led community that is dedicated to the promotion, normalization, and practice of open and inclusive scientific research.

How Will OSSSG Uphold Our Values?

	Wellbeing	Connection	Equity, Diversity, & Inclusion	Collaboration	Integrity
	Confidentiality, Health, Privacy, & Safety	Authenticity, Compassion, Curiosity, Empathy, & Open Discussion	Accessibility Acknowledgements, & Respect	Collaboration, Recognition, & Shared Responsibility	Accountability, Growth, & Transparency
Elaboration 1	We prioritize mental and physical health & safety	We engage in authentic conversations	We use inclusive and respectful language	We share decision making among members	We strive to be transparent
Elaboration 2	We respect the privacy and confidentiality of others	We ask questions instead of making assumptions	We confront the colonial history of both academia and of the land we are on	We distribute responsibility, power, and tasks	We hold ourselves accountable
Elaboration 3	We hold a non-judgemental space	We honour where people are at on any given day	We honour intersecting identities and address privilege to achieve equity	We share knowledge, resources, ideas, and aspirations with each other	We seek and incorporate ongoing feedback
Elaboration 4	We do not tolerate harassment of any kind	We make space for everyone's voice to be heard	We strive to make our space and materials accessible	We value everyone's efforts without comparisons or judgments	We promote learning and growth

*Stay tuned for more visuals and elaborations of actions under these values

Updated August 2021